Veteran's New Book.

Veteran's New Book.

"The Passing of Satan, Death and Hell," a new book just out by Colonel A. J. Rogers, a Confederate veteran, now an immate of the Lee Cann Boldlers' Home, is receiving favorable comment by those who have read it. The style is unique and interesting, while the theory is a little at variance with the commonly accepted teachings of the churches, yet it is based entirely on the Scriptures and is in accord with the belief of a great many thinking people. It is in line with the modern progressive thoughts of the times. The book is well worth reading by all and will no doubt meet with great favor, especially among the lovers of the old veterans, who deserve all the aid they can get in their struggle for independence and self-support.

PASTORS STIRRED UP

Layman Asks Pointed Things About Their Vacations.

DR. A. E. OWEN REPLIES

Suggests, Characteristically, that Lay man Might or Might Not Be a Sorehead-Country Pastor Gets Into Discussion Also.

In the very middle of this, the month of August, most favored of all months by the hard-worked minister seeking a period of rest and recreation, and at a period of rest and recreation, and at a time when many Richmond preachers have hied them to the woods or elsewhere, and many others, distinguished among their brethren, are here revisiting old places and people—at this most seasonable or unseasonable moment a prominent Baptist layman of Virginia throws out for discussion the astounding query:

"Shall the pastor onjoy a vacation at the exponse of his church?" And more discounding still in the eyes of the ministers, the inquire indicates that the selection closes with the following "application:"

"Well done, good and faithful sufferers, for ye have closed the house of Gird in August and have taken away the instounding still in the eyes of the ministers, the inquire indicates that the selection closes with the following "application:"

"Shall the pastor onjoy a vacation at the exponse of his church?" And more astounding still in the eyes of the ministers, the inquirer indicates that the query calls for a negative answer.

The layman with his innocent query has worked the brothern up, and that's a fact. The ball has been given a right sound kick, and on it rells to be klosed hither and you apparently for some time yet to come. Already indignant pastors are expressing their indignation, and one of them reckons that the layman must be a sorehead. But he is not sure, since no name is signed, and since, therefore, the mysterious layman may turn out to be one of this choice and particular friends. Another rather inclines to believe with the inquirer that the city pastor spends his vacation replenishing his purse by preaching "extra," while at the same time drawing his regular. So the ball starts, kicked first this way and then that. The discussion is on, and it has not yet-reached an end—barely begun.

THE AGITATING QUERY.

It is an easily ascertained fact that the pastors as a rule look forward to August as the month in which they will spend the three or four weeks of rest given them by their church, Just at this time the vacation period is in full fling. A great many of the Richmond pastors are here or roundabouts spending are away, and a number of outside pas-tors are here or roundabouts spending their vacation in this section.

The season was ripe for "layman," and he hesitated not. Last week's Religious Herald came forth with four brief paragraphs from the layman, who signs him-self "Inquirer," and this week the brethren are manning their big guns.

There is a custom among pastors of the present day of asking for, and gen-erally getting, a vacation every year for the presumable purpose of resting from the very arduous (?) duties of their pas-

"In other lines of business, when an employe takes a leave of absence, except in very rare cases, he either puts some one else in his place or he has his pay cut off. I do not see any reason why an exception should be made in the case of a preacher, as the average paster gets more than the average clerk. "Brethren, give us light on the subtect."

A SPICY REPLY. A spicy reply to these unorthodox remarks came at once, and in the shape of a communication from the Rev. Dr. A. E. Owen, of Portsmouth. "I am sorry the brother did not put his name to the communication," says the Portsmouth pastor, "As it is I do not know about whom I am writing. He may be one of my best friends or an entire stranger. He may be a governed which at a distance he soons be free from the cuts and exactions of such laymen as 'inquiror'."

This reply, together with one from the Rev. Landon Greene, of Belona, Va., who thinks the country pastor needs vacation more than the city pastor, who improves his purse, as well as his person, while on vacation, will be published in the Her vacation, will be published in the Her aid in a forthcoming issue. "I think," says Mr. Greene, "that we country pastors take tors will have to enter into some sort of combine and let the city pastors take real vacations, while we hold meetings for one snother and get the collections, and thereby increase our incomes about seventy-five per cent."

The final word will be by Dr. R. H.

The final word will be by Dr. R. H.

Pitt, editor of the Herald. He approaches the subject foldingly at first, and refers to the fact that a layman has waked the brethren up. Then he says:

"But all pleasantry aside, pastors who do their duty conscientiously have a great and constant strain on them. As the issues of their work are tremendous, so their responsibilities are correspondingly weighty. Hence it is wise and just to give them a stated period of rest. It may not be always wise in them to continue to work during the period, though work under different conditions may frequently be most restful and refreshing.

"It is the custom of all the banks in this city and hundreds of other establishments to give their employes considerable periods of rest, to continue their salaries meanwhile, and to employ needed help to take their places. This is done on purely business principles. It pays the employer to do it. So if it is reduced to a purely business hasis, the custom of the churches in this matter is easily justified. But obviously, as Dr. Owen points out, the pastor is something more than a mere employo."

"EXCEPT IN AUGUST."

The humorous side of the question is brought forward by a reproduction from another paper entitled "Warrant for Closing Churches." There are soveral choice Biblical selections and authorities after the manner of the following:

"I will come into thy house in the multitude of thy merey—except in August."

"The Lord is in His holy temple—ex-some other worn-out brother and getting pay for the same, while some other worn-out brother is filling his pulpit and getting pay for it right along.

"Now, the above query was suggested by the above facts, and I. would like to have some of the brethren, and especially some of the weary ones, tell us what they think of the question.

"I notice that my church is called upon to pay for supplies when the pastor is on his vacation, in case of revival meetings, and when he chooses to absent himself for other causes."

"In other lines of business, when an employe takes a leave of absence, ex-abeyance. It would appear that this brother's pastor has not done exactly fair by his church. He takes vacation. He goes to revival moetings and absents himself when he chooses for other causes. I think that is leaving his pulpit too frequentity, especially as the church has to pay the supplies. Paying the supplies seems to be the most serious ground of complaint. 'Inquirer' seems to want the pastor's pay to stop when he is on vacation, and tells us that 'lin other lines of business when an employer takes a leave of absence, except fir very rare cases, he either puts some one else in his place or he has his pay cut off.' I suppose that is true when people work by the day, but is not generally true of salaried men.' Dr. Owen proves this by reference to the United States navy yard.

ON A LOW PLANED.

Then he takes up some other statements of Inquirer, and replies to them sharply. But the chief thing to which he takes objection is the low plane upon which 'Inquirer' puts the pastorate. He clarges the pastors with other hirellings.

"From my youth." says Dr. Owen, in this convection, "I have been taught that the ministry was a calling—a calling from God; that the mission of the proacher was a holy one and was lifted above the nucksterings of the market place. One thing that has weakened the power of the pupilt is that many laymen look upon their pastors as hirelings, to be subservient to those who live them. This idea must belittle the ministry and lower the spirituality of the pew. I hope that some noble layman will devise some plan by which the commercial view of ministry shall break from the people to supply the man of God with necessities without the haggling and axactions of what men call business." The pastor ought to be free from the cuts and exactions of such laymen as 'inquirer'.

NEW YORK, August 15.-H. Clay lerce, chairman of the Board of Direc-trust and directorate of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, in association with one of my fellow-directors of the St. Louis and think it is proper that I should emphati-

San Francisco Raliroad Company, I think it is proper that I should emphatically and unequivocally deny the reports that have been circulated during the past six months concerning the connection of the Mexican Central Raliway Company, limited, with various American raliway combinations.

"The Mexican Central Raliway Company, limited, of which I am chairman is as independent of the Rock Island system as it is of the St. Louis and San Francisco Raliway, or the other six or soven raliway systems in the United States of which I am a director.

"The Mexican Central has not made, and does not expect to make, any exclusive alliance with any single line or combination of roads, and will continue to be conducted as independent Mexican property. The conversion of the outstanding income bonds, which are a menace to the company's progress, into semi-annual, interest-bearing debenture certificates of the Mexican Central, is the first step in the readjustment of its finances.

"The present management does not approve of continuing the plan of issuing and selling non-cumulative bonds due thirty-five years hence to raise funds to carry on the great work of completing the Mexican Central Raliway system, and after the present Income bonds are retired others will not be issued."
